DEATH--DESTRUCTION IN STORM'S PATH

TORNADO KILLS 957 PEOPLE-- 2674 ARE REPORTED INJURED.

The Cry of the Stricken and Dying Fill the Streets is Report From the Area of Storm—In States of Indiana and Illinois Troops are Dispatched to Zone of Twister.

A tornado tore thru southern Illinois Wednesday after lashing western Missouri and then caused considerable damage in Indiana before it died out to the northeast after collecting a reported toll of 3329 persons dead or injured, on the basis of estimates available tonight from the storm-swept regions where communication was largely destroyed.

The destruction of property was enormous, several towns being almost entirely wiped out and such populous places as West Frankfort and Murphysboro, Illinois, having lost whole blocks of buildings.

In the town of Parrish only three persons were said to have escaped injury or death out of a population of 500.

While darkness and prostrated wires made the collection of data difficult, estimates which came thru various sources with ever increasing totals placed the total dead at 800 and the injured at 2529 before midnight.

Storms Most Severe in Illinois.

The wind was so powerful at Parrish that bodies were carried more than a mile it was reported. At Murphysboro, where the dead totaled 100, a schoolhouse was blown down over the heads of 245 pupils, while at DeSoto late estimates placed the dead at 100 and the injured at 300 out of a total population of 703.

A schoolhouse at DeSoto also was razed and only three of the 250 occupants unharmed. Eighty-eight bodies have been taken from the ruins.

The late reports say that 700 persons were killed at Parrish and West Frankfort alone, but other information placed the loss in these towns somewhat lower.

Empty Cars Filled With Dead.

At Centuria, Illinois, a southbound passenger on the Illinois Central that left there at 3 p. m. with three empty refrigerator cars, stopped at DeSoto and filled the cars with bodies. Conductor reported late Wednesday night.

There was no building over 19 feet high left standing in the town, he said.

JACOB GEHRES DIES AT HOME OF DAUGHTER.

Jacob Gehres, aged 89 years, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Bert Kellenberger in Frankfort, Wednesday. The deceased is survived by four daughters and three sons. They are; Mrs. Bert Kellenberger, of Frankfort, Mrs. Adam Frick, of Portsmouth, Miss Elizabeth Gehres, and Charles Gehres of this city; John Gehres of Cleveland; Jacob Gehres of Portsmouth, and Mrs. Margaret Vest of Waverly.

The remains will be taken to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Margaret Vest, in Waverly today. The funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock Central Standard time. Rev. G. J. Troutman will officiate.

English World Tongue, Says Globe Trotter

Seattle, Wash.—English is the only language needed when touring the world, according to Benno Jacob, twenty years old, of Frankfort-on-Main, Germany, who arrived here from Japan after two years, wandering through the Near East and Orient.

The youth had walked over most of Europe and through various sections of Arabia, Egypt, the Sudan, China and Japan. Virtually everywhere English was spoken by those with whom he came into contact, he said.

Philadelphia Has Big Oil Explosion and Fire

Fighting the oil-fed flames on the Schuylkill river in Philadelphia after the terrific explosion of 60,000 gallons of fuel oil on the barge owned by the Crew-Levick company as it was unloading at the tanks of the city garbage reduction plant. The plant, wharf and barge were destroyed, two men killed and six badly hurt, and the whole city was rocked by the explosion.

THE BREAKERS PALM BEACH DESTROYED.

The Royal Poinciana Hotel Also Threatened by Fire Losses Heavy.

Fire late Wednesday destroyed the famous Breakers hotel, wiped out the smaller Palm Beach hotel and for hours held a threat of destruction over the entire northern section of this celebrated winter playground of the wealthy.

Martial Law.

Beginning shortly after 3 o'clock in The Breakers, the fire was fanned by a brisk sea breeze and was not brought under control until shortly before 9 o'clock last night. In addition to the hotels, from which numerous wealthy patrons were compelled to flee with little thought of saving their possessions, a number of cottages were burned and the property loss was estimated between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000.

Rumors that guests had perished in The Breakers and the Palm Beach were current as the flames hurled blazing embers into the air and even across Lake Worth to West Palm Beach, but none had been confirmed late Wednesday night.

An elderly man and woman were reported burned to death in The Breakers, and two small children and their nurse were said to be missing from the same hotel. Parents of the children were searching frantically in the ruins but neither would give their names.

Martial law was put into effect Wednesday night by Governor Martin at the request of local authorities after police in West Palm Beach had captured two motor trucks and several automobiles loaded with valuables stolen from the ruins, arresting eight negroes and one white man. State troops were immediately placed on guard at all bridges between the resort and West Palm Beach.

The fire, attributed variously to a carelessly discarded cigarette, a plumber's torch and an electrical apparatus used by an invalid guest, started in an upper floor of the south wing of the Breakers, which had nearly 900 rooms and provided accommodations for about 2000 persons.

The flames broke thru the roof in a few minutes, and smoke spread rapidly thru the building, driving the guests hurriedly to safety. Their losses in valuable belongings is expected to be great, since many of the nation's wealthy families were represented among them.

Few Save Valuables

The spectacle drew thousands of spectators. A large number joined the fireman in their struggle, but the crowd was so great an attempt to check the onrush of the flames with dynamite had to be abandoned.

When the Palm Beach hotel, a 250-room structure, began to burn the fire forces were divided. It became apparent at once, however, that the building was doomed and those assigned to this part of the battle concentrated successfully on saving adjacent buildings. Meanwhile four cottages which were part of the Breakers property had been destroyed and the roof of the Royal Poinciana started smoldering. The fire there, however, was stopped before it gained any headway.

MATRICIDE CONFESSES POISONING.

Mrs. Martha Wise of Medina

Admits Placing Poison
In Water Pails.

The mystery surrounding the death of John Glenke, his wife Lillian and his sister, Mrs. Sophie Hazel, was solved Wednesday night, authorities said, with the alleged confession of Mrs. Martha Wise, daughter of Mrs. Hazel, that she poisoned her relatives. Fourteen other members of their families were made ill.

Mrs. Wise is 41 years old, a widow and the mother of four children.

While being questioned by Prosecutor Joseph A. Seymour, in the presence of Coroner E. L. Crum, Mrs. Fred Roshon, wife of the sheriff and Miss Nell McCarrier, a stenographer, Mrs. Wise admitted that she administered poison which resulted in the death of her mother December 31, Mrs. Glenke January 4 and Glenke February 8.

Mrs. Wise maintained her innocence for two hours and then confessed that she "put it in the water buckets" at the homes of her mother and the Glenke family, it is said. She was unable to give a reason for her action.

"I don't know why I did it," she is reported to have said. "The devil put me up to it."

Mrs. Wise was brought to Medina Wednesday from a Cleveland hospital where she was waiting to have a slight operation performed.

The body of Mrs. Glenke, the first of three persons to die, was exhumed Wednesday and organs were sent to Edward G. Curtis, city chemist of Elyria, Ohio, for chemical examination.

Life on Mars

The basis of the belief that the life on Mars, if there is life there, is more advanced than that on the earth, is that Mars is smaller than the earth and must have cooled its surface millions of years before the earth did. Hence, if there is life on Mars it must have begun long before life on the earth and would have had a far longer period of development.

Sea Nettles

The Smithsonian Institution says that all species of sea nettles sting by night as well as by day. However, there is a marine vertebrate known as the otenophora which is similar to the sea nettle in appearance and is characterized by the absence of nettle cells and therefore "does not sting." This particular species is common in Chesapeake bay.

FRANKLIN ST. ASSESSMENTS OBJECTED TO.

By Mr. Noah Weaver and

Mr. Emanuel Valentine
Property Owners.

Council met in regular session Wednesday evening, March 18, with President John C. Goeller, presiding and all members present.

In the matter of granting permission to the Ohio Traffic Post company to erect traffic signals at the intersections of several streets in the city the committee on department of public safety reported as not being in favor of placing these signals at the intersection of Court street with any other street in the city. On motion of Mr. Baker this was seconded and the report was accepted.

Objections filed by Noah Weaver and Emanuel Valentine to the assessment for the paving of Franklin street was read. Mr. Wolf offered a motion which was seconded that these objections be received and placed on file. Motion carried.

A resolution appointing Messrs. E. S. Neuding, M. Boyd Trout and H. B. Colwell, three disinterested free holders of the city of Circleville, Ohio, as an equalizing board to hear objections to the estimated assessment against the property owners for the paving of Franklin street, was introduced and read for the first time. On motion of Mr. Marion the rules were suspended and the resolution adopted.

An ordinance to protect the public by regulating traffic and lighting certain street intersections by installing electrically lighted traffic posts and contracting for maintaining and lighting same for a period of ten years was introduced and read for the first time. On motion of Mr. Baker which was seconded the rules were suspended and the ordinance was placed upon its passage and carried.

Boston's Boast

The geological survey says that Boston is often spoken of as "the hub of the universe," though it is not near the center of even the state of which it is the capital. The "hub" in this phrase implies the claim that from Boston as a center intellectual spokes radiate to the utmost rim of the country's wheel of refinement.

Knew Value of Rifle

Improvement in All Industries
Campaign for Eradication of Tuberculosis Is Given Credit for Stimulus.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
The farmers of Hillsdale county, Mich., demonstrated their practical foresight when in 1921 they decided to rid the entire county of bovine tuberculosis. It was the first county in the country to be put on this free list, the work being done in co-operation with the United States Department of Agriculture and the Michigan College of Agriculture. Instead of sinking into their feather bed of laurels, the people of this community have gone ahead with other improvements, stimulated by the good results of their big venture in disease eradication which has increased their returns from dairy products and breeding stock.
Economic Benefits.
Once the county had been freed of tuberculosis in its cattle herds, the economic benefits were so satisfactory that the farmers were stimulated to search for other ways of increasing the returns from their live stock. Next to the securing of healthy stock, the improvement in the quality of the animals appealed to them as being a logical step toward the realization of a better live stock industry. As a result there has been a noticeable increase in the quality of dairy stock through the use of better blood and the elimination of poor producers through keeping production records.
The most recent move, which may be said to have had its origin in the campaign against bovine tuberculosis, is a determined effort to improve the poultry flocks by the eradication of the same disease from feathered live stock and by culling out the poor producers.

Increasing Returns.
The work of poultry improvement through these means was started the past summer in one township by a representative of the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture, and a poultry expert from the college of agriculture, the county paying all their expenses except salaries. The culling of the first 40 flocks revealed that the average farmer, in spite of a popular impression to the contrary, was losing money on his chickens. It was found that of these flocks a little more than 40 per cent had tuberculosis. This condition is looked upon as a plausible explanation of the fact that 22 per cent of the hogs shipped from the county are found to have the disease, as hogs are particularly susceptible to the avian type of tuberculosis.
At the same time that the prevalence of tuberculosis was disclosed among the poultry flocks, other conditions were revealed which help to account for the poor results obtained. Among them are poor stock or culls, improper feeding, having pullets hatched too late in the spring, and keeping old birds. The conclusion has been reached as a result of this study of conditions that it is advisable to keep the poultry flock fenced in away from contact with other live stock on the farm.

Favor Oats Instead of Middlings for Fattening
Wheat middlings, which many farmers buy to feed along with corn, tankage and pasture in fattening pigs, will be more expensive in the next few months than it has been before, because of the decrease in our production of cereals.
Oats can be used to replace wheat middlings to very good advantage, and are really worth more when price is considered, in making up a fattening ration for pigs. Tests made by the experiment station at the University of Illinois show that one pound of good oats is equal to one pound of wheat middlings in feeding value. R. J. Laible informs us that middlings are a valuable supplementary feed and many men feel they cannot get along without them for pigs that have recently been weaned.
For growing pigs and as a means of economy, oats can very well be used whole or ground and fed at the rate of one-half pound a day for each pig as a supplement to corn and tankage.

Soy Beans May Be Grown to Improve Thin Soils

Oats are not considered a big money crop, but they do furnish a variety of feed, and they fit in the rotation program, where some spring-sown crop is called for. Some farms where from one-quarter to one-third the acreage was formerly given to oats are changing over to soy beans, and the system seems to be meeting with wide favor. Spring wheat may be utilized as nurse for clovers, or clovers and grasses may be sown during February or March on fall-sown wheat. With this shift of nurse crops soy beans may be profitably grown in greater areas, and may be utilized in a way that will give maximum feeding value and at the same time give some aid to our thinner soils.

Eggs for Hatching
It is poor policy, says N. E. Chapman, poultry specialist with the extension division at University farm at St. Paul, Minn., to use hatching eggs that are more than two weeks old. Fresh eggs are the best. If it is regarded necessary to keep hatching eggs they should be stored in a temperature of 60 degrees or lower. Instructions sent with the incubator should be studied and followed.

Weight of Eggs
The Department of Agriculture says that there is no government standard for the weight of an egg, as the weight varies considerably. However, eggs that are of a good average size usually weigh 24 ounces a dozen. Smaller eggs weigh as low as 18 ounces a dozen, and some exceptionally selected size eggs weigh 32 ounces a dozen.

ASPHALT SUPPLY IS INEXHAUSTIBLE

Interesting Facts About "Devil's Pool" in Trinidad.

Washington, D. C.—"The pavements of city streets cry to the cloop of horses' hoofs and the whir of automobile tires, Trinidad, in tribute to the island's asphalt deposits. Radio and telephone wires reiterate the refrain. Even the walls of houses shut out these sounds, as well as the cold, with the world-famous product of this emerald island of the southern Caribbean," says a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"The most southerly island of the West Indies and the largest of the British islands in the Caribbean with the exception of Jamaica, lying just a few hundred feet from the Venezuela coast, Trinidad ships yearly to the United States more asphalt and bitumen than all the other countries of the world combined. Our 80,000-ton importation from Trinidad, however, is only about one-fourth of the quantity used in the United States. Much of our road material is a by-product of the petroleum and coal tar industries.

Supply Seems Inexhaustible.
"When Sir Walter Raleigh stopped on the shores of Trinidad to 'pay' his vessels with pitch from the famous 'lake,' he declared that there was enough of the substance for all the vessels of the world for centuries to come, and even the demand which modern civilization has put upon the supply has scarcely changed the truth of his statement.

"About a mile from the shore, near La Brea, the peculiar phenomenon, which has been variously termed an 'inferno,' a 'Stygian pool,' and 'the fountain of Styx,' is located. Had Dante known of its existence, it probably would have served to stimulate his imagination to still more fantastic flights. However, the lake about which so many interesting stories have been told does not deserve its reputation. A man who contemplated suicide in its black depths would die of starvation before the ooze dragged him in above his knees.

"The situation produced by walking over its surface is much like that of treading upon some great beast whose flesh gives beneath the feet—it is soft, blood-warm, and the wrinkles over its surface in the blinding light of the sun seem to rise and fall with his breathing and the water which gathers in the furrows suggests that the animal is perspiring.

"It is said that the area of the pitch-bearing lake is 110 acres and no one knows how deep it is. There is an almost uncanny feature connected with the removal of the asphalt from the area. Rails and sleepers have been built out into the lake and each day the laborers dig up chunks of the pitch, which break off with dry, blue-flintlike fractures, and throw them into a car which runs on rails. Each day they make a trough along the sides of the track with their picks and when they return the next morning the trough is filled again level and solid for them to dig up—a furrow that is never finished.

Sears "Heal" by Night.
"Like the Burning Bush, the lake seems never to be consumed, and like the daughters of Danaus, who had to catch water in a sieve, the men never see the results of their labors. At night a great gully runs across the horizon, and at dawn the surface is level again.

"About every three days, however, the pitch swallows up the rails and the sleepers and they must be raised and readjusted on the surface.

"The subtle movements of this queer pool have produced some 'spooky' effects—Islands wander like lonely ghosts from shore to shore; sometimes a tree trunk sticks up out of the surface like the arm clothed in white samite which bore 'Excalibur,' points its warning finger, and again is drawn back into the Climmerian depths.

"One writer has estimated that at least 10,000,000 tons of the mixture have been churned into asphalt by gas during the ages in Pitch lake, which is known as Devil's cauldron among the natives. About 4,000,000 tons have already been removed, and by 1920 the surface of the lake had fallen 15 feet below its former level. Once during its history the viscous fluid overflowed its banks and made its way to the sea near La Brea. Now the world's supply is shipped from Brighton, which fairly reeks of its stock in trade. Asphalt boulders stick up out of the sand along the shore like mysterious black sea worms, the piles of the piers are caked with pitch, the pavements are of the same material, and the black children of the island play with dolls whose little black faces and bodies are made of pitch.

Columbus Saw Island Peaks.
"The island is really a beautiful resort, its roads are excellent, and it is easy to reach from the Venezuela shore, its green trees towering on the sky line from far out at sea. On his third voyage Columbus saw its three mountain peaks, which gave it its name, rise out of the sea on July 31, 1498. At the foot of these hills clusters the group of buildings which forms the capital city, Port of Spain, a rather nondescript modern town which has grown up on the charred ruins of the old Spanish city.

"Though the island has been British since 1797, it is as polyglot as Zanzibar; negroes, mulattoes from high yellow to ginger, French Spaniards, Venezuelans, Chinamen, East Indians, Tamils, Americans and English loiter in its streets or hang over its balconies."

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting, and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. SAVED TROTZKY
ON DEATH'S EVERefugee Kinswoman Tells of His Early Life.

Wenatchee, Wash.—How an experience in the early life of Leon Trotzky, which resulted in saving him from execution by the Russian czarist government, made him a convert to communism was related recently by his cousin, Mrs. Rose Kornblit of Manson, Wash. The mother of Trotzky and Mrs. Kornblit were sisters.

When quite young, Trotzky, whose real name is Leon Brunshtoen, was sent by his wealthy parents, David and Anna Brunshtoen, from their home in southern Russia to European schools, Mrs. Kornblit said. He sympathized with fellow students less fortunately situated than himself, and divided his means with them.

Later, Trotzky was jailed by the czarist government on a charge of being a Socialist, and was condemned to die. It was then that the friendly acts toward his fellow students bore their fruit. They started to dig a tunnel into his cell and effected his escape on the night before he was to have been hanged, his cousin related.

Dressed in feminine garments, he fled to Paris, and kept himself in seclusion until the vigilance of the Russian secret police was relaxed. Then he came to America, where he assumed the name of Trotzky to help in avoiding detection.

"So, it is only natural that Leon would believe in communism," Mrs. Kornblit said. "He gave to the poor and in return the poor gave him what could not be bought with money—his freedom."

His parents did not know for years after his escape that he had not been hanged. After his return to Russia and his rise to the head of the Red army, he rejoined his mother. With the revolution, she had lost her wealth. She now resides in Leningrad.

Mrs. Kornblit, with her husband, Aaron Kornblit, resides on ten acres of highly productive orchard land on the shores of Lake Chelan, not far from this city. She left Russia in 1907 for fear of persecution of the Jews, and came to America in 1918. In Seattle, where she landed, she met and married her husband, who also had fled the Jewish persecutions in Russia.

MAYOR MAKES THREAT GOOD

Paul Lott Given Fine and Jail
Sentence For Assault On Adelphi Marshal.

Mayor Minshall let it be known Monday afternoon he was in earnest recently when he warned that persons resisting arrest would be dealt with severely. He fined Paul Lott, Elm street, $10 and costs and sentenced him to thirty days in the county jail for resisting arrest at Adelphi Sunday.

Lott was charged with intoxication and assault and battery on Jacob Karshner, town marshal. The officer, in attempting to apprehend a quartet of autoists, was knocked from the running board of a machine driven by W. D. McGee, East Main street. McGee was fined $10 and costs and deprived of the right to drive an automobile for thirty days for his part in the affair.

Marshall Goldsberry and Paul Jones, also of this city, were given fines of $10 and costs each. The men were charged with having created a disturbance at Adelphi while under the influence of liquor and the injury of the officer resulted when an arrest was attempted.—Chillicothe News-Advertiser.

"COVERED WAGON"

Spirit Reappearing in Modern Women, Says Edna Ferber.

Edna Ferber, noted woman novelist, has a novel explanation of the modern woman and her many activities. Present-day eagerness to hold a job and let the children alone simply marks a reappearance of the pioneer spirit which sent women west last century, she says in this week's Liberty.

"The pioneer woman of one hundred years ago and the woman of today have much in common," is Miss Ferber's view. "Their methods are amazingly alike. The pioneer woman crammed her furniture and children into the back of a covered wagon, swung her calico skirts up over the wheel and perched beside her husband on the driver's seat, faced unknown perils and hardship and back-breaking work without a whimper.

"When a new pioneer was due in the world she didn't make a great fuss about it. She just ordered a new cradle to be chopped out of a convenient tree trunk and went right on working. When her time came she called in a couple of neighbors, produced the new pioneer, and called it a day.

"The modern woman doesn't ride in a covered wagon; she drives a car. She earns her living as her sister did a hundred years ago, but in a different way. She goes about the job of bringing children into the world just about as the pioneer woman of 1825 did. She has her outside job, and she is busy, mentally and physically, up to the last minute.

"Why some people are so horrified at this state of affairs is a mystery. Their pioneer woman ancestors did it one hundred years ago and produced practically the entire contents of 'Who's Who.' We'll know in 1940 whether the modern pioneer woman hasn't done as good a double job."

A Shock

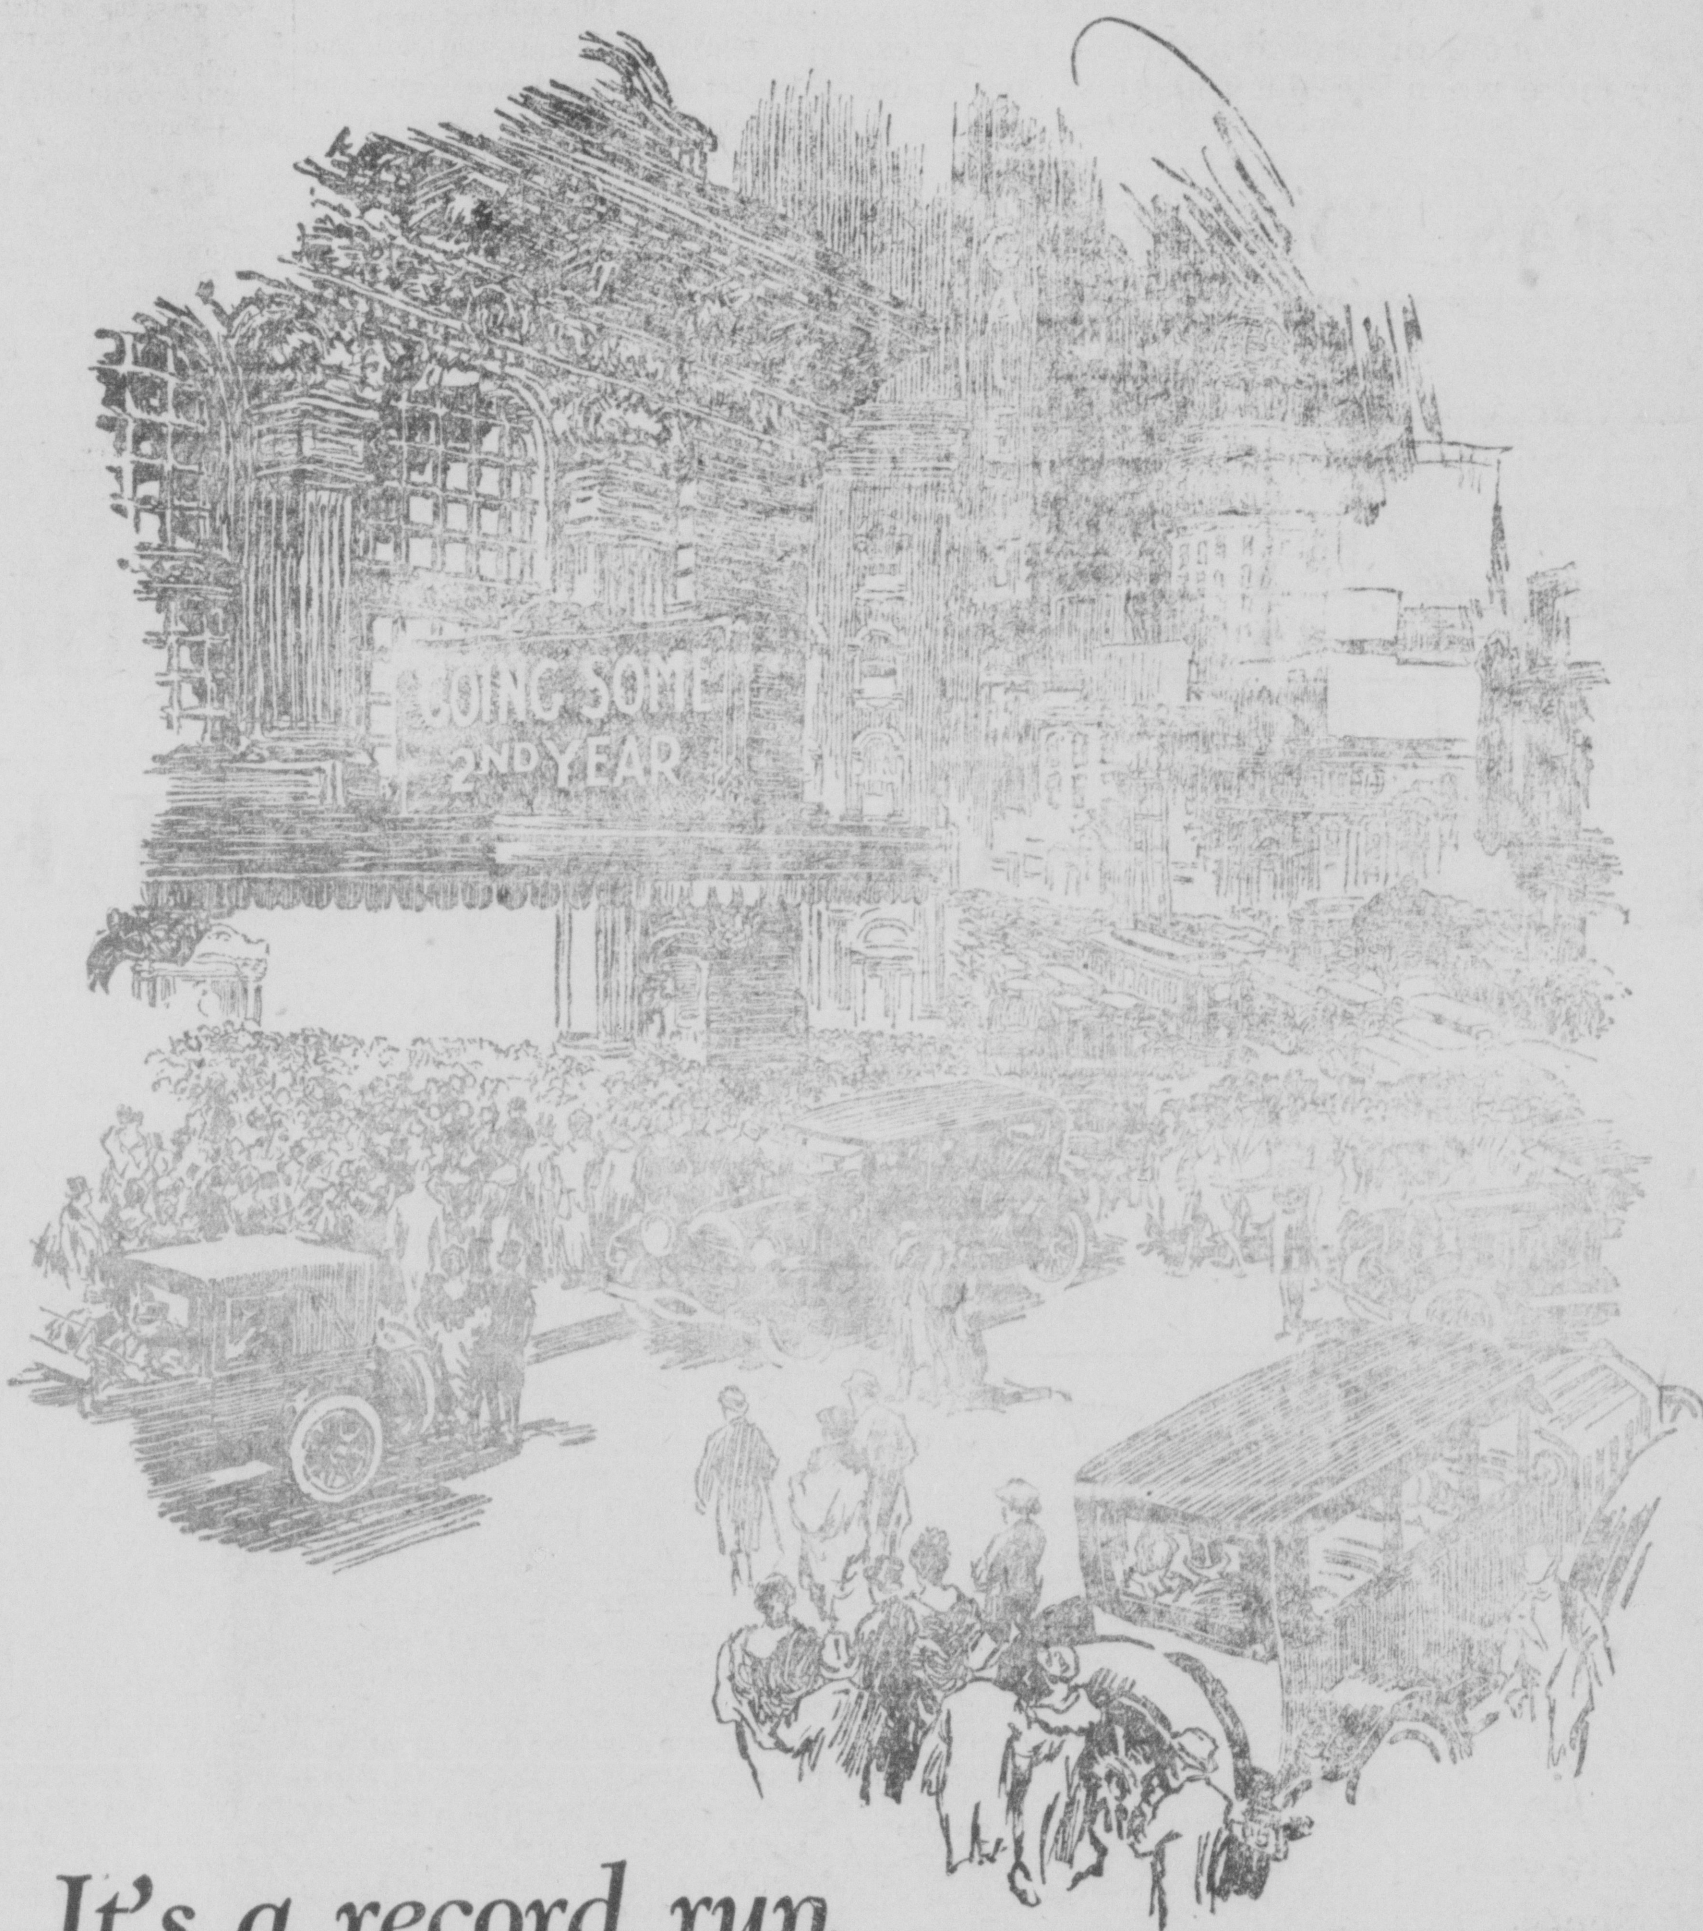

A bishop was paying a visit to a certain parish and decided to stay on for the afternoon in order to address the children of the Sunday school. He had noticed many large bills about, referring to "the Bishop's Visitation" and accordingly began his talk by asking the assembled children the meaning of the word "visitation." "Please, sir," replied a young urchin, "it's a plague sent by God."

ALL-COUNTY BASKET BALL TEAMS PICKED

Members of Mythical Quintets

Named According To Work Displayed In Recently County Tournament.

The following are the selections of Ivan Davis, athletic coach of Circleville High-School for places on the All-County basket ball teams:

First Team

R. F., Furniss—Scioto.

L. F., Hutchinson—Williamsport.

C., List—Jackson.

R. G., Shook—Ashville.

L. G., Florence, (Capt.)—Jackson.

Second Team

R. F., Rittenger—Pickaway.

L. F., Rhoades—Jackson.

C., Henry—Atlanta.

R. G., Khun, (Capt.)—Salterreek.

L. G., Smith—Williamsport.

With the basket ball season closed it would not be complete without an All Star team. The players chosen were selected on their play in the County Tournament. An individual who had a particularly good record may not have shown to advantage in the tournament and for that reason is not given a berth on the mythical teams.

In size the first team would have an entirely different appearance from the second as it would average 160 pounds while the second would do no better than 140.

Forwards

Hutchinson, of Williamsport and Furniss, of Scioto, are placed on the first team. Both are good floor men, fast, handle the ball well and are good shots.

Rhoades, of Jackson and Rittenger, of Pickaway, who are given positions on the second team are not far behind but are not quite so aggressive as the first two.

Centers

List, of Jackson, Henry, of Atlanta, Baucher, of Salterreek, Hartman, of Walnut and Garrison, of Williamsport, are all good center men. Pettybone, of Ashville, had a fair season but did not show anything in the tournament.

List, of Jackson, opposed all the good centers except Baucher and outplayed each one of them and for that reason is given the berth on the first team. Henry, of Atlanta, is placed on the second, he is a good man but not as consistent as List.

Guards

Florence, of Jackson, a big, rugged boy, was the outstanding guard, having the ability to diagnose plays and the faculty of being on the right spot at the right time. He is given the captaincy of the first team.

Shook, of Ashville, is his running mate. Khun, of Salterreek, and Smith, of Williamsport, were also effective and are placed on the second team.

All-County Girls' Basket Ball Teams

First Team

R. F., Smith—Walnut.

L. F., V. Leach—Monroe.

C., Adkins—Atlanta.

R. C., Courtright—Ashville.

R. G., Nothstine—Walnut.

L. G., Davis—Atlanta.

Second Team

R. F., Chilcote—Salterreek.

L. F., C. Leach—Monroe.

C., Angles—Monroe.

R. C., Justice—Williamsport.

R. G., Brinker—Walnut.

L. G., Jones—New Holland.

AMANDA SCHOOLS WITHOUT FUNDS TO COMPLETE YEAR

Defeated Three Mill Levy At Last Election—May Petition For Extra Tax.

Because the school fund lacks $9,000 of enough to complete this semester, the school board of Amanda has asked the County Board of Elections of Fairfield county for the privilege of circulating petitions to levy an additional three mills tax which will bring sufficient money to cover expenses for the rest of the school year. A three mill levy for school purposes was defeated in Amanda township last November.

At present petitions are being circulated in Hocking and Clearcreek townships where school funds are exhausted. Both of these townships also voted down levies for school purposes, last Fall.

Had Spectacular Career

Sam Patch was a lad widely known for daring leaps and dives. Born in 1807 in Rhode Island, he became a cotton spinner in Paterson, N. J. A jump from a bridge into the Passaic river brought him such notoriety that he traveled about leaping from bridges and diving from topmasts of ships. He was killed in 1829 when attempting a jump of 125 feet into the Genesee river.

Efficiency in Kissing

"Should the young man remove his hat when kissing the young lady?" an etiquette book ad wants to know. Offhand, and as an innocent bystander we should say, having in mind the bonnet-like hats the gals are wearing—hats that overhang like the porch on a bungalow roof—offhand we should say that he'd have to remove his hat, if he has any idea at all of efficiency.—Detroit Free Press.

AMUSEMENTS

Douglas Mac Lean is coming back to the Met theater tonight in the greatest comedy achievement of his career. "Never Say Die," his latest screen triumph is an adaptation of one of Willie Collier's greatest stage successes, a piece which kept Broadway laughing for a year and also played for three successive seasons on the road. The play was also presented in London, Australia and other world centers where it swept audiences off their feet and broke attendance records. But the screen version is said to be even more funny and thrilling than was possible thru the limited medium of the stage.

Douglas MacLean is cast in the role of a wealthy young fellow who, if he dose not marry, will have his fortune go to charity. So it is arranged for him to wed a beautiful girl who will become his sole heir. The fun begins when a gunman is hired to put him quietly out of the way—so his wife can marry her original fiance who is his best friend—a divorce being too slow nd complicated. Douglas' attempt to evade this killer and a host of difficulties form the basis of the plot. His final attempt to escape his pursurers in a dilapidated hackney-cab is said to be about the funniest scene ever woven into a motion picture comedy.

"Never Say Die" ends in a burst of hilarious comedy which leaves the audience fairly gasping for breath.

Early Shirt Factories

The first American shirt factory of which there is a record was owned by David and Isaac N. Jordan, merchants, in New York city. They frequently received from the South orders for shirts which they employed seamstresses to make. In 1832 they started a factory for making stock shirts, and in 1845 the first shirt factory was opened in Troy.

Record Flawless Crystal

The largest flawless crystal sphere in the world was brought to New York from China, where it was cut from a perfect Burma crystal. It was nine inches in diameter and weighed 500 Troy ounces and 13 pennyweights. It has a little brother, or sister, fifteen sixteenths of an inch smaller in diameter. The two are valued at $50,000.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

HELPED ADD 20,000 MEMBERS TO ROLLS

Carroll J. Swan, newly elected commander of the Advertising Men's post of the American Legion at Boston, has been very active in the affairs of the Legion for several years. His latest outstanding activity was as chief of staff to Gen. Clarence Edwards, commander of the Massachusetts department, in the great membership campaign of 1924, as the result of which more than 20,000 members were added to the department rolls. The elaborate plans for the campaign, modeled after an attack of war days, were worked out by Mr. Swan.

Mr. Swan has also been active in the Military Order of the World War. He was for two years commander of the Boston chapter and for one year national vice commander of that order. He was chairman of the general committee to run the 1924 convention of the Military Order at Boston.

Enlisting in the First corps of cadets in the Massachusetts militia in 1902, he was commissioned a second lieutenant in 1914. He organized Company D of the One Hundred and First engineers in the Twenty-sixth division and was made its captain. He took the company overseas and engaged in all the campaigns of the division. He was promoted successively to major and lieutenant colonel. He was the author of the first book by an American soldier on the World war, which was published under the title of "My Company" by order of the War department in 1918.

A graduate of Harvard, Mr. Swan has been engaged since leaving college in the advertising business. He is New England representative for a string of newspapers.

Service Men Are Urged to Investigate First

Watson B. Miller, chairman of the American Legion National Rehabilitation committee, has issued a statement warning former service men with disability claims before the United States veterans' bureau against coming personally to Washington to appeal their cases without first securing definite information that their papers are in Washington.

Under the new reorganization of the veterans' bureau all files of papers have been sent out to the regional offices of the bureau and no action can be secured in Washington on these cases until the papers have been returned. Mr. Miller points out that men go to Washington to press their claims without sufficient funds to sustain them until their papers arrive in Washington, and soon find themselves in desperate circumstances. The Legion and other agencies in the city are not able to care for the normal load of transient former service men arriving in Washington without funds on one mission or another.

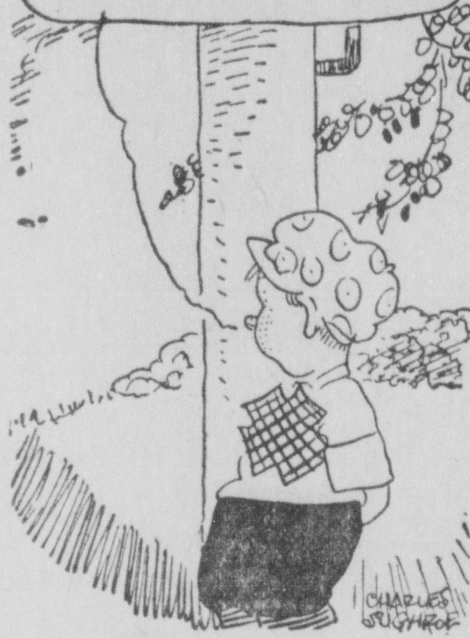

Auxiliary Interested in Real Home Girls

"The old-fashioned girl who can cook and sew is the great hope of the future," declared Mrs. O. D. Oliphant, national president of the American Legion auxiliary, in announcing that the auxiliary would co-operate nationally with the American Home Economics association in the instruction and advancement of home economics. Mrs. Oliphant continued:

"The girl who can make her own up-to-date, stylish frocks and then put on her apron and cook a dinner, may be considered old-fashioned, but, in my opinion, she's a real winner. There is no greater need than for us to get back to homework and home-cooking. Let us stand by the 'home girl'. In the interest of community and national stability the auxiliary is going to co-operate in the advancement of home economics and administration."

FRIEDMAN'S
APPAREL FOR WOMEN

"What is her home like?"

It's a question women ask of each other at the club, at the theater, at the luncheon.

"Oh, so---so," with the faintest shrug of the shoulders.

Or perhaps, "Why, nice enough,"---with just a little hesitation, "er---nothing unusual, though."

But, sometimes, the reply is:

"Simply beautiful. Not elaborate, but such good taste."

How much it means socially, a beautiful home.

How much it counts, that impression the guests carries away.

What a world of difference between the ordinary, and the home with a tone of distinction.

WE ARE HERE

to assist you to give your home that "tone of distinction".

ODD COMBATS SEEN IN JUNGLE WORLD

Constant Struggle Seems to Be Nature's Law.

Boars, bears and hyenas are formidable fighting animals. Wolves and other members of the dog family hunt in packs and are clever fighters, says a writer in the New York Herald-Tribune. They are fleet of foot and full of courage. Sanderson, the Mysore hunter, gives some fine stories of the hunting capacity of dogs. He tells about the conquest of an elephant by dogs named Marquis, a bull-mastiff; Lady, a bull-terrier; Bismarck, Viper and Fury, pups of the above, nine months old, and Turk, an old bull-terrier. He said:

"I had taken my dogs to capture a bear in the jungle when we saw an elephant coming toward us. I decided to let the dogs attack him. Then the elephant turned and made off. He had not gone 200 yards. Turk and Lady were up to it and Lady had secured a cheek hold. Turk seized the trunk, Bismarck held an ear and Bill Sykes, another bulldog, had him by a leg. The fierceness of this fight cannot be told in words. The elephant roared lustily and dragged the dogs along, often on their backs, and apparently in imminent risk of being trampled to death. The smaller dogs, maddened by excitement, were yelling and snapping at the elephant's feet. This fight went on for hours until finally my men assisted the dogs and tied the elephant's legs with a rope. All the animals were completely exhausted and injured. All were bleeding from numerous wounds. Plenty of milk and good, soft beds of straw soon put the dogs into good bearing-hunting condition again."

This experienced hunter, in speaking of the courage of bulldogs, said: "A bulldog is not dismayed by any object, however strange. In this respect it differs from every other created being."

The jungle world is full of bloody contests of this character. Every hunter can relate innumerable experiences about animal combats, strategy and the many types of armor nature furnishes the organic world with for assault and defense. It is a fighting world and must have fights, and, as Bishop Whewell, in his Bridge-water treatise, wisely said long ago: "Regarding the material world, we can at least go so far as this—we can perceive that events are brought about not by isolated interpositions of divine power, exerted in each particular case, but by the establishment of general laws."

The struggle of the whole of the organic orders for existence is one of these general laws and would almost seem to be a necessary one.

Shaw's Good Stories

The vegetarian savant, George Bernard Shaw, has false teeth, it develops. He told a story about them while dining out, a thing he seldom does, usually preferring meatless meals at his own board.

While on a holiday in Italy last year, "G. B. S." said, he absent-mindedly left his teeth behind, and only recovered them when a youth rushed up the gangplank of his vessel, waving them in the air and shouting at him.

"What did you do?" Shaw was asked.

"Put them in, of course, with great eclat," he replied.

Shaw also referred to his patriarchal beard which, he avers, was turned a bright green by the recent pea-soup fog that darkened and dirtied London for 60 hours.

In order to restore a clean color to his facial adornment, he told his listeners, he had to scrub it with a cleansing preparation famous for polishing pots and pans.

Couldn't Be Shocked

Jimmie Wilkinson, editor-in-chief of F. O. B. pictures, outside of business hours is a wireless fiend. When it comes to radios he knows all there is to know, which explains how, when one of those rare occurrences, a thunder storm, threatened Hollywood, he went out and lowered his aerial and buried one end in the ground.

"But my heavens!" exclaimed Ted Cheeseman next day, "weren't you afraid the lightning would strike you while you were doing all that?"

"Of course not," retorted Jimmie. "Knowing that silk is a wonderful non-conductor I did all the work wearing my silk pajamas and socks. An outfit like that may be shocking under certain circumstances but not while fixing a radio."—Los Angeles Times.

Tenants Removed House

Mrs. Ida Ragsdale of Memphis, Tenn., recently ousted some tenants from property she owned because they failed to pay rent, and was astonished when she went to look over the property afterward to find the tenants in moving had lifted the house bodily and placed it on an adjoining piece of land. The ouster proceedings were instituted. Mrs. Ragsdale says, after the tenants had failed to pay their rent over a considerable time.

Horse Protected Baby

Mrs. Alice Hackett of Portland, Maine, tells of a horse protecting a baby against disaster. A baby had been allowed to play on the lawn where the family mare Buttercup was grazing and when the mother stepped into the house for a second, the mare straddled the baby and protected it against a runaway which careened in to the yard.

Had "Let Them Out"

An actor in a stock company playing in an inland town sent a suit of evening clothes to the tailor with instruction to "let it out." He left the suit for some time, but, needing it in a hurry, he went after it himself. "How about my clothes?" he asked. "Most successful," said the tailor, rubbing his hands. "I've managed to let them out several times at a dollar each time."

"Shell Out"

The expression, "shell out," means out with your shells or money, pay up. The allusion is to the shell-money of certain countries, for instance, the coweries, certain small shells used once in southern Asia and on the coast of Guinea in Africa as a common currency or medium of exchange. In the Philippine Islands other shells were formerly used for coins.

And Then What?

Mr. Meyer, smitten with the charms of an unknown, strove vainly to make her acquaintance. At last she entered a restaurant and Meyer boldly sat at her table and ordered two coffees with two portions of cake, tarts, etc. The woman remarked in a mild voice: "Make it three. My husband will be here in a few minutes!"—Munich Jugend.

ADELPHI COP IS INJURED

Marshal Karshner Thrown From Auto While Attempting To Arrest Local Man.

Marshal Jacob Karshner, Adelphi, was badly bruised Sunday when he was thrown from the running-board of an auto while attempting to arrest the driver and occupants for disturbing the peace. The license number was obtained by the officer and warrants issued Monday for the arrest of Paul Lott, Marshall Goldsberry, Paul Jones and William McGee.

Lott, Jones and Goldsberry are charged with disorderly conduct resulting from intoxication, while McGee faces a charge of reckless driving. An additional charge of assault and battery was filed against Lott. It was Lott, according to Karshner, who caused him to be thrown from the machine. Trial will be held Monday afternoon.—Chillicothe News-Advertiser.

Ancient Indian City Is Dug Up in Nevada

Tonopah, Nev.—Another prehistoric city was found recently 30 miles east of Beatty, at the head of Forty-Mile canyon.

The discoverers, Judge W. B. Gray and W. E. Bond of Beatty, have been investigating their find for two months, and they say it promises to rival in archeological importance Pueblo Grande, Nev., the ancient city found recently in the "valley of fire."

A considerable quantity of pottery has been uncovered, and it is said to be unlike anything hitherto found on the American continent.

As soon as weather conditions permit further explorations will be undertaken by W. H. Harrington, representing the Heye Foundation of American Indian Research and the Smithsonian Institution.

Mr. Harrington at present is superintending excavation at the Pueblo Grande, where almost every day he is finding evidence that convinces him this city existed some 2,000 years ago and was occupied for 1,000 years before it was abandoned for some unknown cause. He has uncovered 18 tombs, containing vessels decorated in turquoise and pearl shell cut into small beads. The length of the city of antiquity has been established at six miles.

F. W. Hodge, curator of the Heye foundation, has recommended an appropriation ample to excavate the entire city. It is estimated the work will cost around $100,000.

Lesson for March 22

THE FORTY DAYS AND THE ASCENSION

LESSON TEXT—Luke 24:13-53.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Ye are witnesses of these things."—Luke 24:48.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Goes Back to His Father.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Ascends to Heaven.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Forty Days and the Ascension.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Ever Living Christ.

I. The Walk of Two Discouraged Disciples (vv. 13-15).

Emmaus was seven and a half miles northwest of Jerusalem. Just why they were walking this way we do not surely know. Perhaps their home was there, or they were merely walking to seek relief from their stunning sorrow. If they had believed what Jesus told them about His death and resurrection they would have escaped this great disappointment. The topic of conversation was the tragedy of the cross and the resurrection rumors. If they had believed what He said about coming forth from the grave they would have been expecting to hear just such reports as were being circulated.

II. The Unrecognized Companion (vv. 16-24).

1. Who He Was—Jesus (v. 15).

While they reasoned together on the wonderful events of the last few days Jesus joined them. Even when He questioned them concerning their sadness they did not recognize Him. Many times we are so taken up with our sorrows and disappointments that we do not recognize Jesus walking by our side.

2. His Question (v. 17).

Perceiving their sadness and perplexities, He sought to help by calling forth a statement of their grief.

3. Their Answer (v. 18).

His question so surprised them that they jumped at the conclusion that He was a stranger in Jerusalem, for the condemnation and crucifixion of the great Prophet of Nazareth were so recent and notorious that no one that had lived in Jerusalem could be ignorant of them. One valuable feature of the unbelief of the disciples was that it revealed the fact that they were not credulous enthusiasts, but hard to convince. Out of this incredulity of the disciples developed unshaken faith in Christ's resurrection.

III. The Scriptures Opened (vv. 25-31).

1. His Rebuke (vv. 25-30).

He did not rebuke them for not believing the strange stories that they had heard, but for ignorance and lack of confidence in the Old Testament Scriptures. They had only accepted such parts of the Old Testament as suited their notions. Men and women who do not believe all that the Scriptures say about the work of the blessed Savior are entirely blameworthy. The very center and heart of the Old Testament Scriptures set forth the death and resurrection of Christ. It is ignorance of the Scriptures and unbelief of the wonders and complete redemption wrought by Christ that robs us of many joys, and power and efficiency as workers for Christ.

2. Jesus Recognized (vv. 31-35).

While sitting at meat with the disciples their eyes were opened as they saw Him bless the bread and distribute it to them. We, too, can see the Lord on such common occasions as eating a meal, if we have open eyes.

Indeed we ought to see Him when eating, selling, buying and in our recreations, for He has promised us His presence. They were so filled with joy over this revelation of the Savior that they hastened back to Jerusalem to tell the other disciples of His resurrection.

IV. Jesus Stands in the Midst of the Eleven (vv. 36-47).

1. He said, "Peace be unto you" (vv. 36-47), but they were terrified and frightened. Sinful man in the presence of God is ill at ease.

2. He showed them His hands and His feet (vv. 38-40). In order to convince them of His personal identity He gave them tangible evidence that He was not a mere spirit.

3. He ate before them (vv. 41-45).

4. He commissioned them to evangelize the world (vv. 46-49).

They were to testify concerning His shed blood and resurrection, and on this ground they were to preach repentance and remission of sins to all nations.

V. Jesus Ascends Into Heaven (vv. 50-53).

Having given them the parting message to evangelize the world, He ascended into heaven. Just as we treasure the last words of our departed loved ones so we should ponder this farewell message of the Lord.
